

GARTH'S STABLE OFF TO BENNINGS

Charlottesville Man Sends String of Thoroughbreds, Preparing for Strenuous Campaign.

Charlottesville, Va., February 10.—William Garth, the well-known Virginia turfman, today shipped by express to Washington his string of forty-eight racers—the most promising lot that has ever gone out from his "Inglewood" farm. The special train left here at 12:30 o'clock over the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, in charge of Mr. Garth and his son, Lewis, and about twenty-five men and boy helpers.

The entire string will be given a thorough working at the Benning track, in preparation for a strenuous season, which will last through six months. They will not be returned to "Inglewood" until next December for the winter months. Half of the stable will be taken to Norfolk for the Jamestown meet from April 1 to 15, the string to be in charge of Lewis Garth. The remainder of the stable will be kept at work at Benning until the opening of the spring racing season at Havre de Grace, Md., on April 15. The next appearance of the string will be at Pimlico from April 30 to May 20. At the close of the Pimlico meet the stable will be divided, one shipment going to Louisville and Latonia and the other to Canada, for the May races. To-day's shipment included Mr. Garth's entire string, including those left behind including brood mares and a number of yearlings that, from present indications, will be heard from next year.

The lot shipped to-day included eighteen yearlings, most of them from the famous "Ellerslie" stock farm, this county, the home of Eolus, Eole and Morello. Some of these youngsters are the last get of the famous Fatherless, who died at Ellerslie. Others are Glorifier and Celt colts. The pick of the lot are The Governor, Beaupeur and Peacock. Others include Willie Waddell, Patsy O'Brien, The Idol, King Marshall, Mordred, Robert Oliver, Lady Bryan, The Grinch, Mater, Junita, Lady Esterling and two unnamed—one by Aconit and the other by Ormus. The entire eighteen head appear to be in splendid shape. Several weigh over 1,000 pounds and are close to sixteen hands high.

Prominent in the string of jumpers are The Walkin, one of the best jumpers out last season, and the winner of four races at Pimlico. Ticket of Lady, one of the best jumpers in America in 1910, and a winner last year at two and one-half miles with 170 pounds up. This string appears to be in good shape, with his days of glory especially late. St. Abbe, winner of four races last year at Norfolk, Pimlico and Montreal, has wintered very well. Chryseal, a filly that captured three races on the R. last year, and who has not taken to jumping and will make his debut over the hurdles at Pimlico early in May. Cloud Chief is another of the string that has taken to jumping, and will be tried out at that sport early in the season. A four-year-old is Garth, who will be counted upon to show some class at the coming meets.

The promising three-year-olds in the string include Lady, a filly by Fatherless, out of Network. Lacey won five races last season, in addition to the Chabough Cup, one of the classics of the Maryland Jockey Club, at Pimlico last May. He has wintered well and weighs close to 1,000 pounds. Hot Water, by The Commover, and a winner last season at Pimlico; Little Jupiter, by Hastings, another promising youngster, who has wintered unusually well. Captain Elliott, winner of six races last season, and Little Hugh, who annexed two races last year.

The forty-eight head in the string are declared to be in better condition than usual at this period of the year, due in part to the exceedingly mild weather that has prevailed this winter.

CHANCE TRYING TO LAND BERGER

Yankee Manager, on Way to New York, Talks About His Plans.

Chicago, Ill., February 10.—Frank Chance, the Highlanders' new manager, passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to New York, where to-night he will begin his duties with the club. During his short stay here he was greeted by a score of friends.

Chance is determined to show everybody that he is not yet in the has-been class. He purchased a new first baseman's glove before he left his ranch at Glendora, and Saturday he asked a Glendora man to make a pair of hand-made shoes. The P. L. would not say much in regard to the Yankees or their prospects. "Wait until I get a look at the crowd in uniform at the training camp," he replied, when asked what he thought about the 1913 outlook.

Chance said that he would make every effort to secure infielder Joe Berger, of the White Sox, provided Joe was not wanted by Manager Calhoun. "From what I saw of Joe, and judging from reports of others, I believe he is every bit as good as Buck Weaver," commented Chance. "I wouldn't be a bit backward about trying Berger out at shortstop if I secured him."

Chance was asked why he did not like the name of "Highlanders," as applied to the club. "Why, who started this bunk about the 'New Yorks'?" Chance asked, laughingly. "I never said anything regarding the changing of the name. I guess that if we don't make a good showing this winter, we are calling us something worse than Highlanders."

ATTEND MEETINGS OF BIG LEAGUES

Baseball Magnates, Managers and Players Arrive in New York.

New York, February 9.—Baseball men—magnates, managers and players—gathering for the scheduled meetings of the big leagues, which open here tomorrow, reached the city to-day in numbers. Among the early arrivals was August Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati National League club, and chairman of the National Commission, which also is to hold a session during the week. Ban Johnson, president of the American League, and President Lynch, of the National Commission, are expected here tomorrow. First of the meetings scheduled is that of the American League, set for tomorrow morning. A number of these magnates are already in town. The National League meeting opens Tuesday.

An interesting group was that representing the Boston Americans, the world's champions. It included "Smoky" Wood, out of Network. Lacey won five races last season, in addition to the Chabough Cup, one of the classics of the Maryland Jockey Club, at Pimlico last May. He has wintered well and weighs close to 1,000 pounds. Hot Water, by The Commover, and a winner last season at Pimlico; Little Jupiter, by Hastings, another promising youngster, who has wintered unusually well. Captain Elliott, winner of six races last season, and Little Hugh, who annexed two races last year.

Chance is on route to New York. Chicago, February 9.—Frank Chance, manager of the New York Americans, passed through this city on the way to take up his new responsibilities as manager of the New York American League team.

certain set of military games because the officials refused to guarantee him $50 cash.

"Some one then hinted that he was under grave suspicion of professionalism and he was urged to profess his entire loyalty to the city and the game. After deliberating for some time he asked: 'But I won't have to run if I am sick, will I?' Upon being assured that he would not, he sent in the entry and was advertised to run."

"On the afternoon of the day the games were held this man was seen taking a long run out near his suburban home, although it was announced at the games that night that he was unable to show up because he was ill."

Another Rebate Coming.

Again we have with us Werba & Luescher's "The Spring Maid," presented at the Academy of Music by a company that includes several of the principals and, apparently, many of the same costumes that were seen here in the production last February. Even at that time, "The Spring Maid" was not particularly resilient, she didn't spring very buoyantly, now she has hardly a weary little skip left.

In the title role, Gene Luescher's voice last night was as sharp as ever—not sharp in the sense of being above pitch, but edged, shrill, J. H. Goldsworthy, Prince Aladar quite as unattractively as he sang the same part last year, until the latter part of the performance, when his throat seemed to give him trouble and he used only the half-voice, which was less unpleasant; there was less of it. At the close of the "Spring Maid," Miss Laneska and Mr. Goldsworthy again gave their excellent exhibition of how not to dance.

Harry Short got more out of Roland's low comedy than did Leo Stark last season, and the orchestra of some ten pieces under the direction of Whitney Bennington played the pretty light music delightfully—indeed, the best of the performance was given with the curtain down—but the rest of the production, cast, chorus and scenery, did not approach even the standard of last season.

The chorus was somewhat diminished in number and fearfully depreciated in appearance, both personally and in the matter of costuming, except in the case of one chorus man—the left end as the house looks—who in voice, poise and appearance was not only a chorus in himself, but outsang and outplayed every member of the cast.

Mr. Stock Owner Do you give your sick animals doped medicines?

Did you ever think of that? Many animals die after treatment with doped medicines which are worse than none at all. An animal with a weak heart or run-down condition cannot stand being drugged. When the reaction sets in they usually die.

You should take as much care in doctoring your stock as you would your family.

Mme. Rappold in Song Recital.

Manager Radcliffe evidently had in mind the old saying, "last but not least," in arranging for a series of songs as he gave his subscribers the best of his entire season at the last concert of the series at the City Auditorium last night. Mme. Marie Rappold, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, was the attraction, and drew a crowded house.

Beautiful, handsomely gowned, and with a charming, unaffected manner, Mme. Rappold captivated her audience before she sang a note. After her first group of songs, which included Schubert's "Clara's Lied," "Walder's Samkeit," by Max Regner; Richard Strauss's "Zueignung," and the "Chere Nuit," she sang a note, and responded with an encore, singing the delightful little "Jean," by Spross.

Mme. Rappold, in her first group, sang with brilliancy, power and richness of voice, but it was in her next number, a solo selection from the works of Puccini, that she showed the depth of her dramatic power and her variety of expression. She was again recalled, and responded with Del Aquas's "Chanson Provencale."

In her last number, four songs in English. Mme. Rappold was most pleasing. The first of the collection was "Where the Trail Divides," written for and dedicated to Mme. Rappold by the composer. The "Retreat," by La Forge, she sang with much feeling, and in the last, Del Aquas's "Oft Have I Seen the Swift Swallow," her singing of the coloratura parts was admirable in its brilliancy and incisiveness, and the accuracy with which the vocal ornaments were executed. All in all, the performance was exceptional and brilliant.

As an added attraction, Mr. Thomas Farmer, a baritone, was included in the program. He has a big, rich baritone, and sings with breadth and beauty of style. His first number, a prologue from "I Pagliacci," was impressive, and his second number, a group of three songs, was sung with effective restraint and subdued color.

Mr. Farmer responded to an encore with an old English song, "The Happy Lover."

The accompaniments of William Janaschek are worthy of mention. He played with delicacy and deserves recognition as an artist of substantial attainments—musically in his style, unassuming and sincere in his manner.

SHEPPARD BARRED IN ARMOR GAMES

New York, February 10.—Mel Sheppard, the middle distance runner of the Irish-American Athletic Club, will not be among the famous athletes who will compete in the big games which will be held under the direction of Battery E in the Thirtieth Regiment Armory on Wednesday afternoon, in conjunction with the Brooklyn-Seagate Marathon.

On account of Sheppard having been dishonorably discharged from the National Guard, Colonel Charles O. Davis, of the Thirtieth Regiment, has refused to allow him to compete in the armory.

Colonel Davis is the first of the regimental officials to bar Sheppard from competition. Colonels Bates, Hotchkiss and Foote made no objection to Sheppard competing in the Seventy-first, Twenty-second and Fourteenth Regiment armories. Colonel Davis, of the Thirtieth Regiment, however, thinks it is against military etiquette and discipline to allow Sheppard to compete in a State armory.

Sheppard is only one of a score of famous athletes who are entered for the Battery E meet. Hannes Kohlenstein, Billy Kramer and Louis Scott will break from the barriers in the three-mile event, the winner of which is expected to smash George Bonahag's indoor American record of 14:29.5.

Robert, fresh from his victory in the Hunter Mile in Boston, will start from scratch in the mile and a half run. There is no indoor record for the distance. It is thought the Phenomenal Little States Islander will establish an indoor record of both record faster than the present outdoor record of 4:46.2, which the lamented Tommy Connell made in 1895.

WAKE FOREST LOSES.

Emory and Henry Keeps Up Winning Streak, Capturing Fourth Straight.

Rake Forest, N. C., February 10.—In a fast and exciting basketball game Emory and Henry to-night made four straight in their invasion of North Carolina, by the score of 28 to 21. The Baptists held the visitors well in hand, but were unable to obtain the lead after the first few minutes of play.

The game was exceedingly rough at all times, but was marked by very few fouls. The men kept within the rules, but were on the job all the time. The rapid work of the guards broke up a great deal of the passing of both teams, but each team got away with several sensational plays. Wake Forest, in this respect, but the general team of the visitors was superior, both teams being about equal in good shooting. The stars of the game were Crowe and Nickels for Emory and Henry, and W. Holling for Wake Forest.

Field goals—Logan, 3; W. Holling, 3; Crowe, 5; Cuthrell, 11; Nickels, 4; B. Holling, 3; Browder, 1; Utley, 2. Foul goals—W. Holling, 3; Nickels, 2.

MARRIAGE IS SURPRISE.

Baltimore Man Wins Miss Siegel, of Dumbarton.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Baltimore, Md., February 10.—Miss Leonora J. Siegel, of Dumbarton, Va., was married in Washington to-day by Rev. Frank Sewall, of the New Jerusalem Church, after a romantic courtship. Mr. Diener is a well known teamster and tourist agent, and he and Miss Siegel were a four town several years ago. Several days ago Mr. Diener left Baltimore and met his bride at her home in Dumbarton. This morning he went to Washington, being accompanied by Miss Julia Siegel, the bride's sister. Mr. Diener told his business friends here that he would be away from his office for a week on a business trip. His marriage was a big surprise. A wedding breakfast was served at the New Willard, and Mr. and Mrs. Diener will live in Baltimore.
